DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The listing of references in the specification is not a proper information disclosure statement. 37 CFR 1.98(b) requires a list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office, and MPEP § 609 A(1) states, "the list may not be incorporated into the specification but must be submitted in a separate paper." Therefore, unless the references have been cited by the examiner on form PTO-892, they have not been considered.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

Art Unit: 3682

3. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitations "the chain links", "the end faces" and "the conical disks" in lines 2, 5, and 6, respectively. There is insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Claim 2 recites the limitations "the end faces" and "the conical disks" in lines 3 and 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Regarding claims 1-3, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 3682

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Pat. No. 4,944,715 to Ueda et al.

Ueda et al. disclose a plate-link chain 40 for a CVT with plate links 11 having pairs of rocker members 20 inserted into the links with rocker surfaces 38 supported against each other, the end faces of the rocker members in contact with conical disks 3 provided with a nitrogen-enriched outer layer described in column 10, lines 45-50.

8. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Pat. No. 6,254,503 to Chiba et al.

Chiba et al. discloses in column 1, lines 39-55, a thrust link belt for a CVT with conical disks having a belt strand and thrust links, i.e. V-shaped elements, carried by the strand, the end faces of the thrust links in contact with the disks are carbonitrided.

9. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Pat. No. 6,066,068 to Takemura et al.

Takemura et al. disclose a continuously adjustable conical disk transmission with a first shaft 1 and a second shaft 2, whereby on the first and the second shaft in each case two conical disks 5,6 are provided with substantially frustum-like surfaces facing toward one another, whereby at least one conical disk per shaft is axially movable relative to the shaft, and at least the frustum-like surfaces of the conical disks in contact with an endless loop means 9 are carbonitrided, as disclosed in column 3, lines 61-63.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art shows other uses of carbonitriding in chains and continuously variable transmissions.
